

MAJOR DESERTS OF THE WORLD

A desert is any place that receives less than 10 inches (25 centimeters) of rain per year.

Technically, much of the Arctic and Antarctic is desert by this definition, but they don't have official desert names, so they won't be labeled as deserts on this map.

